When we listen,

what can we learn?

Sharing our stories & lived experiences is the best way to create connection in a divided world.

At In Full Color, we believe...

Art creates empathy.
Empathy creates change.

A decorative graphic in the bottom right corner consisting of several overlapping, semi-transparent polygons. There are two large pink polygons and one smaller orange polygon, all with irregular, hand-drawn shapes.

In Full Color helps artists of color share their stories in their voices.

This is a storytelling revolution we call Authentic Representation.

Our performances, classes and workshops connect learners of all genders and colors with those who are not like them.

We also provide real, honest representation for those who feel unseen and unheard.

We entertain, educate & engage.

WHO WE ARE

In Full Color features work by women and people of other marginalized genders from backgrounds of color:

- Black
- Hispanic/Latinx
- Middle Eastern and Arab
- Asian
- Indigenous and Native American
- Biracial and Multiracial

We started producing work in 2015 and were incorporated in 2017 in Jersey City, N.J. by Summer Dawn, a queer woman of Asian and Hispanic descent who is also a professional teaching artist for Grades Pre-K to 12.

We've received numerous awards for our work including two commendations from the New Jersey State Assembly plus the first Jersey City Arts Council award in the Performing Arts --->>

WHO WE SERVE

Our performers and educators represent the least heard voices in America.

250

Artists Served

Since 2015, we've served ~250 artists and counting

18 States

Our artists are from New Jersey, New York, California and 15 more states

94% BIPOC

People of color make up 94% of our roster; women & TGNC folx make up 80%
(The others are white or male allies in volunteer/supporting roles)

29% LGBTQ+

At least 29% of our artists identify as queer – this includes gender non-binary, gender fluid and trans artists

We also serve the Disabled community, undocumented folx and immigrants

Our roster is diverse, and ever-expanding.

LISTENING

Our artists share unique experiences through monologues, poems and stories. Some are hilarious, others heart-wrenching. All are powerful.

INTERACTING

Our performances and workshops include brave, fruitful discussions facilitated by professionals. People get to ask questions, show love and build community.

WHO WE ENGAGE

Our audiences connect by...

CREATING

We create opportunities for people of all backgrounds to share their own stories and embrace their identities.

WHO WE ENGAGE

Our work greatly benefits scholars studying the following:

HUMANITIES

- African and Black Diaspora Studies
- Asian Studies (East, South and Asian-American)
- Ethics, Policy and Social Justice
- Latinx and Latin-American Studies
- LGBTQ+ Studies
- Middle Eastern and Arab Studies
- Political Science
- Sociology
- Urban Studies
- Women and Gender Studies

ARTS

- Acting, Drama and Theatre
- Comparative Literature
- Creative Writing
- English

WHAT WE SAY

Our artists perform monologues and poems – and sometimes even songs!

Their work is inspired by real issues that impact women of color. Here are some of the diverse topics we cover.

Pieces range from comedic to dramatic and average 5 minutes in length.

Family-friendly and all-ages content available.

HOW WE BEGAN

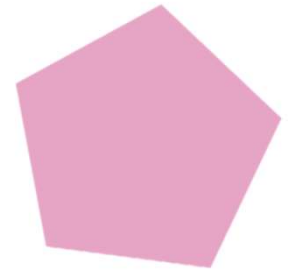

I started In Full Color for fun as an actor who wanted better roles and knew other women of color did too. I figured, let's write our own stories! Then I discovered that our work sparked needed conversations, created empathy and inspired people to push for real change.

Today, our work is still fun, but it's also become so much deeper. We advocate for key social, racial and feminist issues. We empower women and TGNC folx to be their best selves.

We're leading a storytelling revolution.

Founder/Director

WHAT WE OFFER

You're a Star

(an educational musical assembly)

- Teaching artists perform an interactive show with theater, song, DEL principles & SEL skills (30 mins)
- Synopsis: Today's the day – “You're a Star,” the school's annual talent show. Leehanna, an Afro-Latinx tennis star, hopes her singing will finally get her music-loving, over-worked mom's attention. Xia, a Chinese-American transfer student, wants to show that despite being different, she's cool girl material. And Carlos, a biracial white and Latinx comic book nerd, is mostly hoping to prove something to himself. As tensions run high, the three friends are torn apart by their differences and egos. After singing solo songs about the things that make them feel “other” (but that also make them totally unique), the singers learn to love themselves – and accept and respect each other! Speaking Engagements & Teaching Artistry

(create positive impact at your school!)

Our founder/director Summer Dawn loves to share her experiences as an entrepreneur, artist and woman of color with students looking for BIPOC role models.

She has spoken on panels at venues like the Passion is Pursuit Conference at the Lincoln Center, Seton Hall University and Jilin International Studies University.

She is a teaching artist with Young Audiences of New Jersey & Eastern Pennsylvania and with Storytelling Arts. She has created and executed theater, writing and anti-racist curricula, working with students Grades Pre-K through 12.
